About the Speaker:

Dr. Mark Nation is a highly sought-after surgical and restorative prosthodontist. He obtained his bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Louisville (U of L) before earning his dental degree at the U of L School of Dentistry in 2000. He continued his training with a three-year residency through U of L's Graduate Program in Prosthodontics. Dr. Nation went on to spend fourteen years on U of L's faculty, where he served as an attending doctor for the General Practice Residency program in the Department of Surgical & Hospital Dentistry. He is currently attending faculty in U of L's Graduate Prosthodontics Department. He has lectured for the university's undergraduate program as well as at study clubs and dental meetings all over the United States for over two decades. He regularly trains general dentists and other specialists in the placement of dental implants.
